This Is Important ...

READ THIS FIRST

It has been established that there are now over 20-million people in the United States who earn their income from the comfort of their own home and do not subject themselves to the aches and pains associated with working the standard 8 to 5 job. Rather they have chosen a different path that allows them to take charge of their own well being, receive the income they are truly worth and not have to endure the politics, hassles and unfairness often found in today's work environment. If done correctly, there are numerous advantages available to the person who can effectively function without having a boss looking over their shoulder. That's what this directory is about.

There are several important points that I feel need to be addressed and understood before you begin your search through the pages for the perfect home income opportunity for you.

#1: We all learned early in life that great gifts often come in small packages. Thus, do not let the size of this book disappoint you. It would have been easy to simply list all of the opportunities available across the country and have filled two or three hundred pages. Many months of research were necessary to weed through the countless opportunities available and eliminate the ones that for one reason or another we did not feel were worthwhile.

#2: What you may consider a "job" is, as true in many of the listings, in reality an independent contractor relationship where you agree to provide your services and do certain job for a certain amount of income. Generally there is no income tax withheld from your income and there are no benefits such as health insurance or a retirement plan. As such, you are considered self-employed and are responsible for your own expenses associated with your business including tracking your income and expenses, and filing your own tax return.

#3: Included in these listings are also selected business opportunities and you'll also find ideas for small businesses that you may wish to start. Some positions may require what is considered marketing or sales work. If sales is not your cup of tea, all you need to do is bypass those listings.

#4: There is no guarantee that you will be accepted by any of the companies listed nor can we guarantee that you will be successful with any of the business opportunities or business ideas presented. The requirement of each listing will likely be different and you may have to qualify just as you would if you were applying for a regular job. Some positions may require that you possess no special skills while others might require a good telephone voice, typing or computer skills, ability to work well with people, have dependable transportation, own a computer, work well with your hands, etc.

#5: We will not be responsible for the actions of any company listed nor the way they conduct their business. Many are members of their area Better Business Bureau or the Chamber of Commerce, others are not. If in doubt, check them out.

#6: Everything changes with times and you should expect that some of the listings or opportunities shown will be outdated even before this book comes off the printing press. Companies move, merge with other companies, go out of business or no longer have the same opportunity that once was offered. This directory is similar to your phone book in that it's printed periodically, not daily, and you should not expect all of the listings to be perfect. Please feel free to write and advise us if you find a company is out of business, has a new address, or the opportunity is no longer available.

#7: Many of the work-at-home companies listed may require a small investment or refundable deposit from you to cover their costs of providing special tools, instructions, patterns, initial supplies and the like. This is common and should be expected as this is one way the companies can separate those who are serious and truly willing to work from those who are just curious. Also, the business opportunities listed will almost always require an investment on your part as will the ideas given for starting your own business. The good news is that often the dollar investment is quite small compared to the potential earnings.

#8: Within the pages of this directory you will find something to fit most any situation. There are workable part or full-time opportunities for the college student, the homemaker with youngsters under foot, the ousted executive, and even those who have become bored with retirement. Unskilled workers may produce an income about equal to or a bit above hourly minimum wage while those who possess in-demand talents can earn $30,000 to $50,000 or even more.

#9: Write when you apply or inquire about an opportunity and do not call unless the listing says to do so. Many companies are happy to send you information or review your application/resume but specifically request that you do not call. We strongly suggest you put your best foot forward by using a typed letter or resume rather than a note scribbled on a piece of notebook paper. If necessary, have a friend do the typing for you.

BIZ IDEA: People who have at least a working knowledge of computers may wish to consider a business that is known as “Telephony”. Surely you have phoned a company and found your call being answered electronically whereas you are asked to push “1” for new service, push “2” for billing, and so forth. These systems are simply computers with special software that allows one to easily design various functions, i.e., answer or place calls, record and play voice messages, receive touch-tone input, send a fax, etc. There are a number of ways these systems can be used from a home-based business to provide various services in your community or a person could design and sell complete systems to area businesses.

Here are some examples of services a system might provide:

- ▶ Voice Mail Service
- ▶ Santa Clause Hotline
- ▶ Health Information
- ▶ Homes For Rent By Price
- ▶ Newcomer Information Line
- ▶ Product Information
- ▶ Classified Hotline
- ▶ Legal Advice
- ▶ Time & Temperature
- ▶ Fax On Demand
- ▶ Employment Hot-Line
- ▶ Sports Scores
- ▶ A Dating Service
- ▶ Movie Theatre Show Times
- ▶ Telephone Survey
- ▶ Stock market Summary
- ▶ Local News
- ▶ Doctor Referral Service
- ▶ Latchkey Kid Check-In
- ▶ Local News
- ▶ Pre-Employment Screening
- ▶ Band Appearance Schedule
- ▶ Handyman Referral Service
- ▶ City Entertainment Guide
- ▶ Elderly Welfare Check-In
- ▶ Order Taking, 24-Hours

Put on your thinking cap and you'll be able to come up with a number of other workable business ideas you can provide using this technology. You might sell ads that are announced before the caller receives the requested information or set up a 900 number to receive revenue from callers.

You don't need to be a computer programming wiz as the telephony software now available makes it rather easy to set up a system. It will take some study on your part to fully understand and master the process. Also realize that several services can run from a single computer.

Use a letterhead and write either of these companies for information about their telephony software:

Biz Idea: Hydroponics is the growing of various plants rapidly without the use of soil. With the use of a small building or garage and special hydroponic equipment one can grow tomatoes, cucumbers and lettuce as well as other plants. These items can be profitably sold to area groceries or at produce markets. I knew of one operation in a small 10' x 10' building that grew oats to use as cattle feed. It is reported than one can earn about $40,000 a year on as little as 1/3 acre of land. It takes time to study and learn the business. I see two opportunities: grow items yourself, or provide turnkey systems to others. To learn some simple shortcuts to building a successful hydroponic operation, read "How To Start On A Shoestring And Make A Profit With Hydroponics" It is available from:

Biz Idea: It's amazing the number of people who lock themselves out of their cars on a regular basis. It's an inconvenience to the driver in summer months when small children are accidentally locked in a closed vehicle. The buildup of immense heat is quick and can cause death unless one is quickly rescued. Newer cars are virtually impossible to open with the old "bent coathanger" or "slim-jim" technique. Opening kits are available which contain a collection of rods, wedges, hooks and other tools that are designed to open most any car or truck. This can be a perfect "mom and pop" type 24-hour operation that can easily be run from one's home. When business is swift, part-timers (home based) can be added on a contract basis. Advertising would consist of yellow-page ad, stickers on area phone booths, word of mouth to police officers, auto clubs, convenience store clerks, bar owners, etc. A two-way radio setup or mobile phones for dispatching would be a good investment. Manuals are available to help you gain knowledge of how to open locked vehicle without damaging the vehicle. Fees range from $30 to $50 for a service call. The following company has been in business for 15 years and sells tools, manuals and hands-on training seminars:

Sully Tools, Inc.
3515 Nodding Pine Court
Fairfax, VA 22033

[] GREETING CARDS: This company will sometimes use home based writers and artists to help design, write and create greeting cards. Mostly freelance work. Please write expressing interest and ask for guidelines before submitting any samples. Include a pre-addressed stamped envelope. Contact:

Art Form Card Corporation
725 Country Line Road
Dearfield, IL 60015

Biz Idea: Vending can be profitable business, but one should be forewarned that there are some companies who have turned this legitimate business into scam. The majority of the less-than-honest firms present the potential investor with highly inflated income projections, make fraudulent guarantees, charge outrageously for finding machine locations and highly inflate the purchase price of machines. On the other hand, with a small investment and a few spare hours, a person with no special skills can begin and grow a profitable vending business route to the point where it can produce a sizeable income. This can be a perfect home-based business in the beginning using your garage or a spare room to store merchandise. The type of items that can be vended range from peanuts or gum to soda pop, sandwiches, snack foods, coffee and even aspirin. Some companies move up the line into juke boxes, arcade or pinball games and even pool tables that are located in clubs or sports bars. It would be wise to began small with only one or two machines in order to allow yourself to see the true profit picture before investing heavily in more equipment. The company below has been in business for some 75 years, provides good literature on the business and you can buy vending equipment directly from them.

Biz Idea: Sell rubber stamps by mail or by making person to person calls to businesses in your area. Most every business needs rubber stamps and with effort you can establish yourself as the continual source for these top selling items. In years past, rubber stamps were created using lead type that one had to hand set. This was at best, quite time consuming and the stamp design was limited to the typestyle fonts on hand. Today it is all much easier and there are virtually no limitations as to what can easily be put on rubber stamp. It is now possible to create signatures, designs and even photos on the stamps with little effort. This is a perfect small business that can be run from a spare room in your home or garage. Equipment is now available that uses either your existing home computer or built in keyboards that make it easy to quickly create the stamps in various typestyles. Biz Idea: You can make a bundle of money working from garage creating signs and banners for businesses in your area. Specialized computer equipment is available that allows one to create beautiful sign work without, in most instances, even picking up a paint brush. Signs are no longer made by an artist painting the letterings and designs, but rather by a computer with graphic software and a special cutting machine. The lettering and design of the sign is made using a very thin plastic-type vinyl material that can be applied to most any sign surface. The material — which is available in many colors — is better than paint as it holds its color and remains attractive and bright for a long period of time. What used to take a sign artist hours to letter by hand can now be created in just a matter of minutes. Do not confuse this special vinyl material with press-and-stick lettering you might find at your hardware store. It is a much more high-tech process that produces a completely professional look. Look around you will quickly see that the market for signs is tremendous and the potential for repeat business from a single customer is great. When these processes you can create banners for your local Wal-Mart store as well as reflective lettering for the marking of police cars. You'll be able to create lettering for the windows of a business that simply shows the hours of operation all the way to designing a complex multi-color layout for the side of a radio station mobile van. Signs can be created on most any surface including wood, glass, metal, plastic and banner material. I know a person who started such a business in his garage with several thousand dollars invested some years ago and it quickly grew to where he was required to obtain a retail location in order to handle all of the work. With a considerable amount of study and reinvesting profits back into the business, that company now brings in more than $500,000 a year. Biz Idea: Toner cartridge copy machines and laser printers can be quite expensive when purchased new. Some cost nearly $200. Many companies have now chosen to purchase remanufactured or refilled cartridges that sell for about half the price of a new unit and this where you can make some money. This can be an excellent, yet easy to run, business that can be started from your home. You can learn to fill and repair used cartridges yourself by watching various "how-to" video tapes that are available. Most cartridges can be taken apart and properly refilled in 30 minutes or less using just a few dollars worth of materials and supplies. If you don't feel you are mechanical type, there are companies who will supply you the refurbished cartridges at wholesale prices for resale to your customers. Biz Idea: An all time food favorite is dried beef or turkey jerky which you can learn to make at home and sell at flea market, roadside stands, festivals, craft shows or just your friends. A friend of mine did this and brought in about $1,200—$1,500 a week cash, selling from his car and just working Friday afternoon, Saturday and Sunday. There are a number of ways one can easily make jerky using most any meat including beef, turkey, venison or any wild game. It's just a matter of slicing the meat, marinade it for about 24 hours and then dry it for about 12 hours. The drying process can be done using a regular home oven, a bar-b-que smoker or a food dehydrator. Biz Idea: Some insurance claim adjusters will purchase copies of photographs or video tape taken at serious auto crash scenes. The recordings should depict scenes that can help determine the cause of the accident—skis marks, vehicle damage, missing traffic signals, etc. Often these pictures will later be used in court proceedings and you may be asked to testify. Contact several auto insurance adjusters in your area to determine the need for such a service, what they would require and the amount of payment that could be expected. You'll need to invest in camera equipment, business cards to leave in wrecked vehicles, and radio equipment to scan police, sheriff's department, highway patrol and other emergency channels. It would be wise to contact your local police or emergency officials before you begin to advise them of your business and possibly obtain advice, restrictions or "press" credentials. Good typing/grammar skills, a computer with adequate word processing software and a laser printer are a must. This can be a very solid opportunity once you gain the necessary knowledge and word begins to spread about the low-cost services you offer. KNOWLEDGE: It's a crying shame that many otherwise nice people graduate from high school or college and never read another book and fail to ever learn another thing. Knowledge, learning, practicing, growing, and success is a journey—a continuing journey. There may be some short rests along the way, but there should never be an end. You simply have to keep moving and processing. To quote from the New York Times Bestseller, "Life 101," "Life is for doing, learning and enjoying".

If you plan to be successful working for any company or possible creating your own profitable homebased business from a simple idea, you must firmly understand that you must impose upon knowledge. Then, combine your knowledge with a generous helping of "I can do this", begin immediately to follow through with your commitment and never, never give up unless it is firmly proven over time that the plan simply won't work.

Do understand that you will not be perfect and will likely make mistakes along the way. Learn to live with it. You may have to gain a bit more knowledge, adjust your success plan to go in a slightly different direction, mature your initial overly optimistic projections or temporarily postpone progressing forward until you work out some of the kinks. The point is that you should keep trying, keep learning and keep moving forward.

Biz Idea: You too could easily make your fortune by promoting your own line of cosmetic, hair skin, or body care products. This is the type of business one can begin on a shoe string budget and with time build into a quite profitable full time business. Many people mistakenly believe that years of expensive research and development are necessary in order to bring even a single cosmetic type product to the market. It just isn't so. There are companies that can provide you with what is known as "private label" products at wholesale prices. The items (moisturizer, shampoo, body lotion, etc). Have already been formulated, produced and bottled. All you need to do is develop your company name or logo and create your label for the individual products.

While I don't know it for a fact, I'd wager that many of the celebrities you see on television promoting their "special" cosmetic product are using the "private label" method.

Listed below is one "private label" lab that produces a line of Aloe Vera based products. The company can also provide custom manufacturing or provide you pre-labeled products at wholesale prices.

I would suggest that one who takes on operating such a service not be weak of heart and can work well with an array of different people. Some previous background in property management would be helpful.

Depending on the size of the organization and the amount of income you require, it may be necessary to do work for more than one association. Begin by contacting several home owner organizations, determine their needs and offer your services.

Biz Idea: This is a business I heard of many years ago and it is one that will probably seem a little strange to you until you are better able to grasp an understanding of exactly what it is and how it works. Just a few months back it was almost impossible to gain information on this service as those who worked in this field were very tight lipped regarding the details of how it was done. Okay shhhh, listen closely. The business is the raising of bugs. To be more specific it is the raising (they call it rearing) of beneficial insects that are used in place of pesticides to maintain crops in healthy condition. It is reported that many pest insects are acquiring an immunity to most pesticides and this could have a severe effect on our food supply. The overall concept takes some study but the basic are that good insects eat bad insects and this saves crops. It is said that this business can be extremely profitable and could be started in the space in your garage. Even with a simple operation, with a very low startup cost, it is said one can net from about $12,000 to $40,000 per year. There are also opportunities for those who don't want to raise bugs, but simply want to sell them. Biz Idea: The selling, installing and monitoring of electronic home and business security systems has become a giant, $13.2 billion dollar business with no immediate end in sight. While some states do require licensing, this can still be a part-time business that can be started from your home. You may choose to allow the business to grow into a much larger operation. In long run you will find that most of the money is made in the continued monthly monitoring fee that is charged to your customers. KNOWLEDGE: Some of the best jobs or opportunities for a successful business in your home will be those you recognize, research and pursue on your own. All business have three basic elements: (1) Research and development of the idea and then the manufacturing process or providing the service. (2) The administrative function including banking, billing and paperwork, and (3) The marketing or selling of the product or service.

Let's suppose you spot something someone else is doing in your area to earn money and you would like to do the same thing. Maybe you have some ideas to improve the service, upgrade it or somehow see the business in an almost new light. The problem is that you're lacking basic knowledge of the business operation, sources of equipment and whether or not the business is truly viable. Do two things: (1) Go to a good business library and search for magazines that serve that particular type business or profession. Order a subscription. Next, (2) Make contact with someone far from your location who has a business or service similar to the one you want to start. Often, because of the distance, that person does not see you as a threat or competition to their business and will open up their heart. I've done this several times and always got exactly what I needed by offering a few hundred dollars or so to spend the day and ask questions.

Biz Idea: This is a proven business that can be started quite small from home, and with proper nurturing end up bringing in several hundred thousands of dollars each year. It's the TV rental business. Imagine for a moment a business where you sell a product, get paid, get the product back and then are able to sell again. That scenario represents what the TV rental business is about and presents a glimpse of the possible profits. You could start with as little as 10 portable TVs and rent them for a weekly fee equal to about 10% of what you pay for them wholesale. Have a two-week minimum rental and charge an extra $10 the first week to cover delivery expense. Be sure your contract states that rentals are payable in advance, the rental continues until the set is returned and there is a late payment fee ($5) when the weekly or monthly rental payment is not on time.

You will rent to those who have their own TVs in for repair, but most of your business will come from those who do not have the necessary credit or cash to purchase a set. Some of the latter will keep the sets (and pay your rental) for years. Do expect some hassles in getting fees collected on time and you'll have some sets left abandoned or stolen when the renter moves out at 2.00 am. Do require a photo I.D. and place of employment as well as information about relatives and friends (including their phone number) before you leave the set.

[] OPINIONS: Market survey and opinion workers are often needed in many sampling areas across the U.S. You will be home based and work in the field. You are paid as much as $40 for a completed assignment. Inquire by letter for openings to:

Biz Idea: The selling of Advertisement Specialties, some may call them Promotional Products, can be quite a profitable field. The array of items you can sell is almost limitless and ranges from balloons and coffee mugs all the way to T-Shirts, ball caps, rulers, and paperweights. The list includes most any other item on which advertising or a company logo can be printed. These items can be sold to most any company you can name — radio stations, plumbers, Fortune 500 corporations, etc. Schools, churches non-profit organizations and colleges often sell these items as fund raisers. This business is not for the weak of heart and I would suggest this only be tried by someone with some good outside sales experience and the willingness to make a few cold calls in order to get established. Contact at least a couple of companies, study their offers and commission schedules before deciding on a supplier.

If you have some past experience as a teacher — even tutoring your own children or training others at work — this will go a long way in establishing your qualifications and will help you earn more per hour for your services. This business requires no major startup expense other than business cards and flyers which are circulated to get your first customers. [] TRAFFIC TICKETS: There is a growing number of people who after being issued a traffic ticket do not show up at court to pay their fine and a warrant is issued for their arrest. Police departments working on tight budgets don't always have the necessary personnel to track down all of these offenders. Some departments are open to the idea of hiring outside, non-police, home workers to make phone contact with the offenders. The idea is to talk the culprits into making an appearance on their own to pay the fine rather face arrest at home or work. Also the telephone contact can provide officers with additional data they can use when the offender doesn't take the hint. Contact your local law enforcement agency and inquire about the possibilities. They may offer an hourly rate or possibly a percentage of the amount collected. Some collection experience would be helpful but even a beginner can be successful.

Consider setting up a handyman referral service whereas those seeking repairs can call one single number and be assured that they will be put in touch with a qualified, dependable, reputable individual that can handle their needs. Naturally this will require that you carefully screen your potential clients before offering your services. For a flat monthly fee or possibly on a commission basis, you offer a variety of services including advertising, answering the phones, scheduling appointments, keeping the books, etc. This could be an excellent income producer and can be run from a home based office.

[] DELIVERY: You might be surprised by the amount of money one can earn weekly simply delivering items for area merchants. A FINAL WORD:

I'm a believer!! Yes, a true, absolute, 100%, unshakeable believer that working from the comfort of one's own home in your business is the only way to go. There are just too many benefits to ignore. Because of legal business tax deductions one can actually earn less money than working at a job and live as though they were making more money. When setup properly, your home business can pay a good percentage of your rent or house payment, your utilities and even provide you a new or late model car and the necessary insurance virtually tax free. You can even reap these advantages on a part-time basis while you keep your full-time job. With thorough knowledge of these legal concepts you'll understand that it's not what you make, but rather what you get to keep that is truly important. And, who can complain about the morning commute of ten seconds down the hall to your home office.

I know many, many people who have made the change to come home and no longer dread the rigors of the 9 to 5 world. Their businesses cover a large range of services from bookkeeping, consulting, assembly of various products or computer work, all the way to real estate, mail order sales and even magazine publishing. With knowledge and preparation you too can join this elite group, estimated at over 20-million people, who enjoy working from home. Learn what is necessary and be prepared to soar like an eagle.
